

From what I have seen of brother Strange. & heard him put forth myself.
I believe he was guilty of, not false doctrine but throwing up strife and speaking in a way not for edification.

On the other hand Subthorne was very impatient & contentious, when anything came up that was not quite correct, & not for edification and gave way to irritability & got into a bad spirit towards bro. Strange. until it has grown into a sort of bitterness & malicious feelings towards Strange and all this terrible malice has shown itself in the present sad state at Y.W.

Is there no Scripture for silencing a brother? And if silent in a meeting - as at Y.W. should that discipline not be acknowledged by other assemblies. first of all, and if unrighteously done investigated by the first assembly that Prr-Strange went to, from his own meeting.
And should not bro Strange have been silent every where till the matter was satisfactorily settled?
